Northwestern Bell Telephone Company, who assisted the Alumni Office in planning the Telethon held in September, is interested in using the Clarke College Telethon as a "success story" for a promotional brochure on the benefits of using the telephone for fund raising. Although much emphasis will be placed on their cooperative efforts, Clarke's name and the story of the success will be focused upon in describing the Telethon.

Clarke's administrators, faculty, students, alumni, and trustees will be asked for their comments and responses to the Telethon experience for publication in this brochure.
A date over $104,000 in actual cash
has been collected with over $134,000 being pledged, and we still have months to go before the May 31
deadline.

all who have made this "success story" possible, THANK YOU!

Junior Marybeth Carroll takes a swing at the birdie and wins a contest that brings her to the semi-finals of the Clarke badminton tournament. The tournament, which began on March 10, was scheduled to finish on April 2, but because of hectic plans before spring break, six more matches need to be played before a champion is announced.

New representatives recruit future students

More than 25 Clarke students visited over 19 high schools during spring break as admissions representatives.

The idea to begin a program involving students as Clarke representatives was that of senior Julie Ford, an admissions intern this semester.

"There are a lot of schools the regular admissions counselors don't visit, so prospective students might not have any personal contact with Clarke. Now that contact is possible," said Ford.

Other admissions office personnel were also optimistic about the program, stating that prospective students would talk and ask questions more freely when the representative was a peer, rather than an admissions counselor.

With about one-third of the results returned, Ford was very enthused about the program. Although on the whole the out-of-state people did not do as well as the Iowa residents, Ford said that none of the visits was a waste of time.

Nemmers, Stock, Rielly win class presidencies

Louise Nemmers, Cathy Stock and Ann Rielly were elected Wednesday to lead their respective classes for the 1980-81 academic year.

Nemmers, president of next year's senior class, defeated Sue Hawks in that contest. A history and English double major from LeMars, Iowa, Nemmers served as Clarke chairperson of the Tri-College Arts Council this year.

Taking the helm for next year's juniors will be Stock, a corporate communications major from Naperville, Illinois. She defeated Jill Hickey and Cathy Senn in the presidential race. Stock is currently sophomore class vice president.

Ann Rielly, a freshman from Oska-loosa, Iowa, was top vote-getter in her bid. She defeated classmates Steve Gilles and Ellen Sterk to capture next year's sophomore presidency.

Kay Krapfl was re-elected to serve as secretary for the Class of '81. She defeated Tess Cheshire, Karla Kendrick and Karen Shepard.

Mary Hyland topped Sue Klein and Paula Schuster to take the treasurer's spot in next year's senior class.

Rounding out the list of officers for the Class of '81 will be Marybeth Carroll, social board chairperson; Janet Lallier, Phoenix; and Lisa Drew, Reach Another Person (RAP). The three ran unopposed.

Stock will be joined by Mary Mattern, re-elected secretary for the Class of '82. Mattern defeated Roberta Connelly.

Pat Just topped a field of three to capture the treasurer's post in next year's junior class. She outpolled Kathe Baxa and Margie Quinlan.

Social board chairperson for the class will be Jackie Reding. She defeated Pam Kambach and Ann Rottinghaus in that race.

Becky O'Hare, RAP chairperson for next year's juniors, defeated Rosa Herrera.

Re-elected Phoenix chairperson for the Class of '82 was Vicki Rohlf. She ran uncontested.

Polly McGinn was elected secretary; Julia Kessenich, treasurer; Mary Lee Hackman, RAP; and Sue Winters, Phoenix, for next year's sophomore class. All ran unopposed.

Peggy Bittmann defeated Colleen Hurley in the social board contest for the Class of '83.

'Force' cancels tour

The Dubuque Friendship Force notified over 200 members in the Dubuque area, including 14 members of Clarke's 13 x 13 entertainment troupe, that the scheduled Germany-U.S.A. ambassador exchange has been called off.

The cancellation was due to the lack of German ambassadors and the unpredictable world situation, according to spokesmen.

The exchange was to have taken place from May to June. The musical troupe was invited to participate in the exchange and perform for German families as well as approximately 240 other U.S. ambassadors.

Sister Anne Siegrist, coordinator of the 13x13 group notified the Clarke students of the cancellation and proceeded to organize another tour which would have taken the troupe to the western part of the U.S. This substitute tour was not unanimously favored by the performers and was also cancelled. Future tours are being considered for next year's troupe.

'Chapter Two' shows how to cope with loss

By Margaret Doyle
Staff Reviewer

Coping with the loss of a spouse can be a traumatic experience for the remaining loved one, as portrayed in "Chapter Two," currently playing at Dubuque's Cinema Center. Neil Simon's autobiographical screenplay is heartwarming and witty, yet cradles an underlying dimension of hopelessness and despair.

James Caan, as a recent widower, tries desperately to come to grips with the death of his wife, but is sidetracked by the appearance of Marsha Mason. Caan and Mason successfully accept each other's performances with hysterical one-liners and sensitive, compassionate dialogue.

His first call to her was by accident, but George (Caan) takes an interest in

New faculty members hired due to increased computer enrollment

Two new faculty members have been appointed to the computer science department staff to accommodate increasing enrollment in the department.

Sheila Castaneda and Jerome Johnson, the new faculty, will teach additional sections of already existing courses. According to Sister Marianne Joy, computer department chairperson, this will free other department staff members to teach specialty courses and to develop mini-computer programming for other departments and groups on campus.

Castaneda, 27, is a native of Holy Cross, Iowa, and is a Clarke graduate. She holds an M.S. degree in computer science from the University of Wisconsin-Madison and has managed computer systems in Des Moines and Guatemala. Her appointment is effective in June.

Johnson, 29, received an M.S. degree in computer science at the University of Colorado. He has served as an analyst, programmer, instructor and consultant with the U.S. Peace Corps and businesses and universities in Guatemala. Johnson's appointment is effective this fall.

Castaneda will teach two sections of Structured Cobol and two sections of Operating Systems. Johnson will be the instructor for three sections of Introduction to Computer Science and one section of Assembler Language I.

Jenny (Mason) and continues to call her until they agree on a five-minute "first look" date. They fall in love, and after two weeks time, decide to marry. George's brother, Leo (Joe Bologna) steps in to offer his advice, somewhat concerned over their quick decision. At the same time, Leo's wife announces that she plans to leave him — their relationship is a stunning contrast to that of George and his late wife. Along the same lines, Jenny's friend, Faye (Valerie Harper) exposes her jealousy of the good fortune that Jenny has experienced in meeting George. Faye's marriage is on the rocks; she is desperately in need of a spark in her stagnant lifestyle, which leads to a brief affair with Leo.

While on his honeymoon, George is reminded that he and Jenny are at the same vacation spot he and his first wife visited some years before. George is overcome with depression, and they return home, disillusioned with their marital obligation and the direction that it will take.

Consequently, George wants to bail out and get away for awhile. Before he leaves, Jenny hurls a power-packed soliloquy at him, frustrated with George's demeaning attitude of comparing her to his first wife.

The story ends on a happy note though; George and Jenny reconcile with the realization that the past cannot be changed, and they must work together to determine their future. I left "Chapter Two" with delightful anticipation of a "Chapter Three."

COURIER COMMENT

Olympic boycott hurts Americans

From the Watergate scandal to Senator Wayne Hays' illicit relationship with Elizabeth Ray to tax evasion by various members of the state and federal governments, politicians' corrupt actions have been exposed to the American people.

As if to prove that he is a true politician, President Carter blackmailed the United States Olympic Committee (USOC) into adopting a resolution to boycott the summer Olympics. The resolution, which states that the American athletes will boycott the Moscow Games this summer unless President Carter determines by the end of May that the boycott is no longer in the national interest, was adopted by a vote of 1604 to 797.

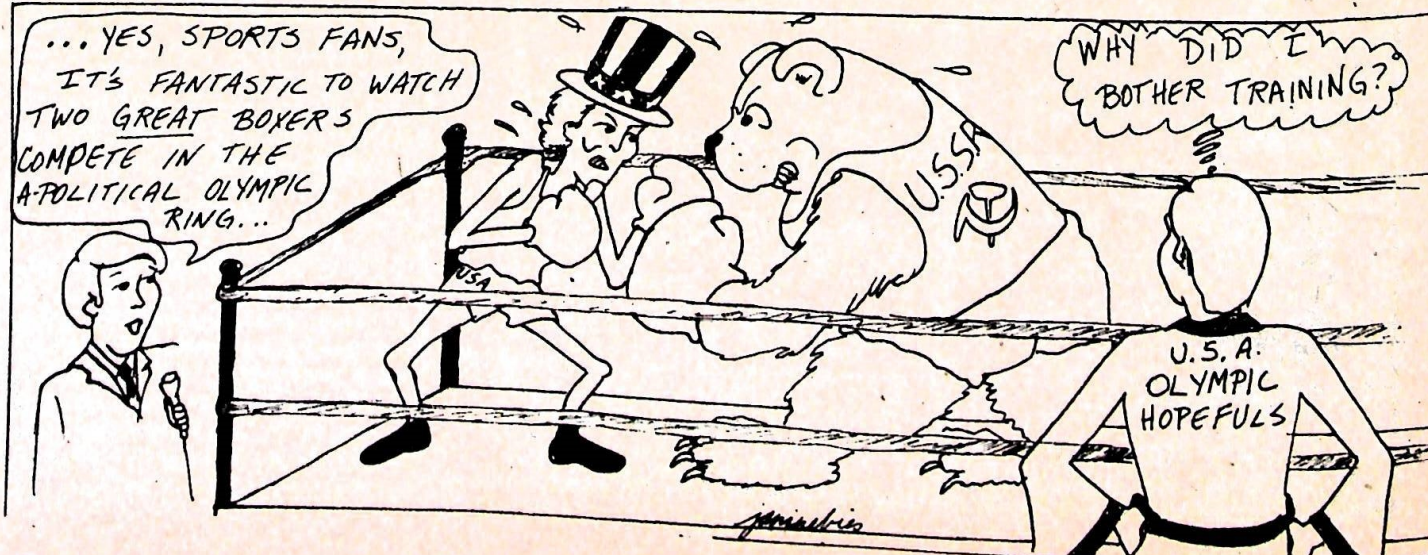

Carter offered to increase financial support of the Olympic Committee in return for an endorsement of the boycott. As if the promise of monetary reward weren't enough, Carter added speeches, telegrams to Olympic officials and the lobby of Vice-President Mondale and his aides into the bargain.

Furthermore, one day previous to the Committee's meeting, Carter threatened legal action to prevent American athletes from attending the Olympics if the USOC refused to boycott. Although Carter did not specify what course of action he would take, it is within his power to revoke the passports of U.S. Olympians or stamp them invalid for travel in Russia.

By its very nature, a boycott is intended to hurt the people being boycotted — not the party doing the boycotting. The only repercussion that Russia will have is the loss of expected income in tourist trade. On the other hand, Americans will be more deeply affected. Our athletes, who have trained for years, are denied the opportunity of competing for a gold medal — a goal many have had for a lifetime. But even more importantly, Americans are denied the chance of proving their superiority in a peaceful manner and exhibiting their pride to the world.

Courier fails to see how a boycott of the Olympics in Moscow could possibly be in the national interest. We are not hurting Russia; we are hurting ourselves. We are, as the saying goes, cutting off our nose to spite our face.

Furthermore, Courier cannot condone the methods used by President Carter to obtain the Olympic Committee's approval of the resolution to boycott the games. For any other citizen, such actions would be punishable under the law, and the leader of this nation should never have so belittled himself to use them, much less be exempt from punishment if he uses them.

Courier receives First Class Award

The Courier has been awarded a "First Class" rating by the Associated Collegiate Press (ACP) for its publication last semester.

The Courier is evaluated by the ACP each semester in different categories including news, sports, feature, editorial, photo and general appearance. Judges give suggestions for improvements as well as comments on strong areas.

Last semester's judges awarded the Courier a "mark of distinction" for editorial leadership and opinion features. A mark of distinction is the highest rating a newspaper can receive in a particular category.

Pre-registration will take place for next fall on Friday, April 25 in the library as follows: 3:15, incoming seniors; 3:30, incoming juniors; 3:45, incoming sophomores. Students should pick up registration folders by Thursday, April 24 from their advisors.

Enroll Clarke

With a larger number of freshmen and transfers in recent years, Clarke College has increased its enrollment of 50 students for the 1980-81 academic year. According to Dr. Mene, 15 to 20 of the new students are male.

Dunham said many freshmen have experienced Clarke's computer nursing and corporations programs.

The college is having a dormitory space to accommodate additional students according to Dunham. The college has offered to lease space if it experiences a shortage for next fall. The college is adding that Lora knows until summer need additional space.

N.I.T.I. (North Institute) students offered Clarke housing for the fall. The college N.I.T.I. students more next year according to Dunham.

Mary Josita Hall, dormitory director, said the floor will continue to be improved.
